What schools and students that partner with Ridely say

Johnson & Wales University is a proud partner of Ridely

I have been able to use the Ridely app for class, create a riding schedule for my two horses, and plan and reflect on each ride really easily.

It is also a great place to make a list of goals with the planned activities in the calendar feature.

I was very pleased with the video content they provided, especially the exercises and tips for accomplishing certain movements in dressage and equitation.

Lexi Blais, student
Johnson & Wales University

I usually assign the students 3-4 videos a week, different topics each week - there are so many great videos in Ridely. Many of the exercises we discuss in class and then the students can practice them.

This is so useful - it is such a great learning and educational tool. They are able to use their visual, auditory and kinesthetic learning styles for this.

This helps create creativity and innovative teaching techniques and is so inspiring for myself and the students.

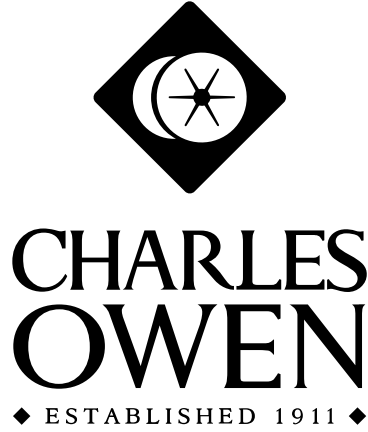

Feedback from the students:

- Very engaging
- Helps visualize what they are doing and then you can try it yourself
- Good for developing terminology and training system
